

BHS STUDENTS PARTICIPATE, WIN IN ENTREPRENEURIAL YOUTH SUMMIT

Thirteen Brockport High School students traveled to Bryant & Stratton College to participate in the 2022 Junior Achievement Entrepreneurial Youth Summit.

Modeled after the hit TV show Shark Tank, the summit has been hosted in Rochester for over 50 years and, in November, BHS students joined approximately 100 other students from eight different schools across Monroe County to develop the skills they need to successfully give a proper business pitch, work as a team, and gain confidence in public speaking.

The field trip was part of an Entrepreneurism class with Mr. Mark Mutton. Having heard about this opportunity, the summit was quickly identified as an important learning experience for our students in a real-world setting.

“Having an understanding of the world of business and how economics works in business is important,” Mutton said.

“Entrepreneurism is having the personality and passion of creating your own business or idea and growing it. Economics can certainly affect your business, but an entrepreneur’s leadership abilities will define whether that person will succeed or fail in that venture, regardless of the state of the economy.”

During the summit, students split into 17 teams and were joined by one of the 18 mentors who worked to help the groups craft their pitch for one of four judges, all of whom are successful entrepreneurs from the Greater Rochester Area. The judges went on to critique the groups based upon their creativity and overall idea, their communication skills, and their group’s participation.

Though this is the first year Brockport has participated in the summit, three of the four teams that were selected to advance to the finals included a representative from Brockport— where they pitched their idea to their peers. Two BHS students, Ethan Ruggles and Greg Rightmyer were part of the winning team, receiving a Rocketbook for their pitch called “Design Lab,” a 3D body scanning application for clothing stores to help consumers have a better fitting experience.

For attending the summit, the students will be eligible to apply for two scholarships, including a four-year full-ride scholarship from Syracuse University.

“Being able to offer a mixture of classroom education and actual hands-on opportunities are critical for BHS students to better understand what opportunities are available to them beyond high school.”

- Mr. Mark Mutton

Brockport administrators help prepare next generation of educators

Barclay Elementary Principal Scott Morrison and Fred Hill Elementary Assistant Principal Lauren Combo helped student teachers at SUNY Brockport complete mock-interviews in preparation for graduation. In December, Mr. Morrison and Miss Combo posed as interviewers to help soon-to-be college graduates in the Childhood Inclusive Education program prepare to secure teaching jobs after graduation.

Since 2016, Brockport Central Schools' faculty has helped to prepare future educators by participating in the mock interview simulation. Both Mr. Morrison and Miss Combo have served on the mock-interview committee in previous years. This year, they met a group of students at the college and provided tips and tricks on how to have a successful interview.

"It's helpful to understand where some of our potential teacher candidates are coming from and what we can expect from the next generation of teachers," Combo said. "It allows us to better prepare the District's resources so we can meet the candidates where they are, in order to ensure our new teachers have a successful first year."

"This process is a good way to give back to the teaching profession," Morrison said. "It also provides candidates, who are coming through, with a great opportunity to gain some in-person interviewing experience, ask questions, and receive feedback. It's something I never had when I was in their shoes."

While the administrators helped students at the collegiate level, their BCSD students were never far from their minds.

"We know students in our district are searching for their first jobs or are preparing to go on interviews themselves," Combo said. "It's important to remember to be on time, to dress for the position you're applying for, and to smile – let your personality shine."

This program is possible through the District's strong connection with the college.

"If they [the students] haven't had an opportunity to work with the District yet, it's a great way for them to see District representatives and work with us a little," Morrison said. "It's a great connection we have with the college, and it begins with that networking."

Fifty BHS students inducted into NHS

Fifty students from Brockport High School were inducted into the District's chapter of National Honor Society (NHS). On January 9, 2023, the soon-to-be inducted students were joined by their NHS advisors, District administrators, and current members of NHS to celebrate their scholastic and extra-curricular achievements and receive their certificates.

This year's keynote address was delivered by Suzie Cool, a multimedia journalist serving as the digital host to the Rochester Americans and Rochester Knighthawks. Cool's address inspired students as she broke down each of the four pillars of the National Honors Society: scholarship, service, leadership and character. Cool emphasized the importance of the students' having a strong character as one of the most important pillars and believing in themselves to make their dreams a reality.

First-grade class adopted by J.B Hunt, receives gifts and $1,000

First-grade teacher Julia Pratt has been awarded a total of $1,000 from Really Good Stuff and J.B. Hunt's Adopt a Classroom Program to purchase new supplies for her students.

On Friday, December 16, Ginther Elementary was excited to welcome two J.B Hunt employees into Mrs. Pratt's class. During the visit, students were able to connect with our guests about trucks, deliveries, and shared stories about their parents' experiences with mechanics and cars. Students listened attentively as they learned more about safe driving practices; specifically, the importance of precision, slow driving and the difference between driving a truck versus driving a car.

It wasn't just knowledge and driving tips that our guests from J.B. Hunt shared, they also brought gifts and presents for our students and Mrs. Pratt. There was a chorus of "thank you" and excited chatter as a toy delivery truck, hats, shirts, coloring books, and build-your-own-delivery-trucks were passed out to the students.

According to J.B. Hunt, these prizes are part of the annual Adopt-a-Class program where drivers can nominate their student's elementary class for a $500- $1,000 donation in school supplies.

Mrs. Pratt received $500 from J.B. Hunt and $500 from Really Good Stuff, a classroom supply company that promotes "innovative, teacher-created classroom solutions."

OMS focusing on professional development opportunities

Teachers at Oliver Middle School have had many professional development opportunities this year, primarily focusing on increasing access to instruction. To increase access, teachers have been provided training on the following elements:

- Instructional Match - Ensuring lesson content is appropriately matched to students' abilities.
- Content Review at Lesson Start - Making sure the lesson opens with a brief review of concepts or material that have previously been presented.
- Preview of Lesson Goals(s) - Discussing why the goals/ learning targets should be shared at the start of instruction.
- Chunking of New Material - Emphasizing why teachers should break new material into small, manageable increments, 'chunks', or steps
- Creating an Environment Where Students Can Thrive
- Strategies for English Language Learners

Professional development on these topics has included presentations from experts from outside the District.

Our Subject Area Leaders and Teacher Leaders are also participating in a book study and lead activities/discussions to highlight techniques that can be used to solve academic and behavior problems.

Students at Hill School showcase skills during Enrichment Night

Families were invited to Hill School in January to celebrate Hill School Enrichment Night, coordinated by teacher and advisor to the Hill School Enrichment program, Mr. Blaine Broughton. The program provided students with amazing opportunities to explore interest in creative writing, coding, geography, chess, math and much more. Enrichment Night allowed students to showcase the hard work they've shown through the first half of the school year, displaying projects such as robotic cars and sharing skills they've learned on the computer and with scientific tools such as microscopes.

Earning Bee Bucks at Ginther

Students from Mrs. Hasfurter's class handed in the "Bee Bucks" that they earned in Art class in January. Ginther students can earn Bee Bucks all around the building by following the three B's - Be Respectful, Be Responsible, and Be a Learner. Ginther students are continuously learning how to become respectful and responsible learners every day.

Veterans present to seventh grade students

Seventh grade students heard from two veterans as part of their ELA unit this winter. For the unit, students read the novel Ground Zero by Alan Gratz.

OMS Assistant Principal Matthew Hennard and retired OMS Teacher Richard Wiest spoke with students about their experience serving in the military as a result of September 11, 2001, including where they were when they heard about the attack, why they joined the military and what it was like to be stationed in Iraq (Mr. Hennard) and Afghanistan (Mr. Wiest).

Following their presentations, Mr. Hennard and Mr. Wiest answered questions from students regarding their time in the military and how it compared to Ground Zero.

Cardboard boat races return to BHS!

The cardboard boat races returned to BHS this year for the first time since early 2020. High School students designed, built and raced cardboard boats across the BHS pool, competing to see which boat across first without sinking to the bottom. Any students interested in competing were welcome to join the event. Teams were comprised of as few as two and as many as five students. Following two preliminary relay races, all of the remaining boats competed in a final relay for the title. Congratulations to this year's champions and the fan-chosen "Titanic" award winners!

Applicants affected by this regulation are those applying for a first-time driver's license; those applying for a driver's license because of a lapse of a one-year renewal grace period; and those applying for a new license as a result of revocation of a previous license. The following regulations are applicable to all prospective registrants:

- Registration must be completed by mailing the registration form or in person at Oliver Middle School by noon the Tuesday immediately preceding the class. There is a seven-person minimum to hold this class. Registering on time reduces the risk of cancellation.

- Applicants must be 16 years of age or older.
- Applicants must bring their valid learner's permit to register.
- Applicants must pay the $40 registration fee upon registering and completely fill out the registration form.
